

("Gileck"), who approved Marlowe's estimate, was also without a Florida adjuster's license. Appendix (DE#44) 4076. Heritage did not verify Marlowe and Gileck's licensing or certify their authorization to act as adjusters, as mandated by Florida law.

Heritage's systematic use of unlicensed adjusters in adjusting claims paints a stark picture of a general business practice that flagrantly disregards its insureds' rights.

Florida.” (See Exhibit 35 attached to Defendant’s Response at page 1692). This does not state what measures were put in place to prevent unlicensed adjusting. This alleged “reliance” is irrelevant at this stage, as the Court’s task is not to weigh the parties’ competing positions. Moreover, Heritage does not deny that unlicensed adjusting of a claim is a felony, but nevertheless argues, without authority, that “the mere fact that an unlicensed adjuster handled a claim does not, without more, raise to the level of bad faith as required under Florida law.” See Response at p. 22.

Defendant's disregard for licensing requirements not only undermines the integrity of the claims adjustment process and exposes insureds to potential harm and unfair treatment. It suggests a broad pattern of gross negligence and a lack of corrective action, highlighting a troubling business practice that prioritizes expediency over the protection of the rights and interests of its policyholders. Such a cavalier approach to claims adjustment raises serious ethical and legal questions, demanding scrutiny and accountability.

Heritage’s General Business Practice of Altering Estimates and Reports was Willful and/or in Reckless Disregard of the Rights to its Insureds.

Heritage also instructed its own field adjusters to alter their estimates and reports, and delete witness statements and photographs of damage to its insureds’ property. As a general business practice, Heritage allowed non-field adjusters who had never visited the property nor, spoken to an insured to remove items from estimates, but would not allow them to recommend re-inspections or retention of experts to confirm reported damages. As a general business practice, Defendant also admits that it does not provide underwriting information regarding the pre-loss condition of an insured property to its adjusters, including Plaintiff’s claim. See Response at p. 5.

Despite Heritage not providing this information when it was financially disadvantageous to do so, Heritage has a general business practice of using underwriting information that shows the condition of the insured property when such information is useful to Defendant for denying a least twenty occasions after the new guidelines were implemented, Heritage ignored its insureds' requests for appraisal. See CRNs filed after October 2019. Appendix (DE#44) 3398 – 3505.

In evaluating what an insured may submit as evidentiary support for a claim of entitlement to punitive damages, one Florida court has stated that: “[in] a bad faith case, the insurance company's litigation conduct was admissible, relevant evidence.” Home Insurance Co. v. Owens 573 So. 2d 343, 344 (Fla. 4th DCA 1990). Given the conduct of Heritage’s counsel in this and the large number of other hurricane claims for commercial property, this is highly relevant.

Incredibly, Heritage’s misleading conduct continues in its recent Response. Heritage’s suggestion that Judge Logue at oral argument in the underlying case somehow found that Plaintiff’s estimate of damages was fraudulent, is an outright falsity. See Response at p. 11. Judge Logue could not and did not make a finding on appeal of fraud.

Florida's fraud statute regarding insurance requires insurers to establish procedures for detecting, investigating, and reporting fraud. See Fla. Stat. §§ 626.9891 and 626.989(6)(a). Heritage's claims handlers are tasked with possessing the necessary training to identify insurance
